FOOD FOR THOUGHT

OCTOBER 2022

FIRST SNOW MAKING OUR COMMUNITY GLOW

Summer is officially over, as we welcomed the first snow of winter this week! As the seasons change, I've reflected on the summer events we had this year and am filled with appreciation for our incredible community. During each event, donors, volunteers, the news media, and food drive hosts poured out their support for our neighbors and the food bank. We have never before seen such an outpouring of aid and positivity from so many diverse groups. Thank you all so much for all you do!

The change in weather brings with it the excitement of another holiday season coming up, the anxieties of winterizing cars and homes, and PDF joys. For the food bank, the new season means higher fuel usage, less produce, and more people in need of help. These looming challenges don't look so daunting with your continued support! Because of your incredible service to our community, we are confident we will be able to continue feeding those who are hungry in our community!
